

Colour in the bird in flight

This is a mistle thrush that can be seen in the museum's library.

The mistle thrush is a pale, black-spotted bird that is also large, aggressive and powerful. It likes to stand upright and bounce along the ground. However, it is more often found at the top of the tallest tree singing its song or giving its rattling call while soaring through the air.

Using colouring pencils and felt tip pens, add detail to and colour in the bird in flight.
