

Colour in the bird skulls

The Museum has these skulls on display in the special exhibition, Cabinets of Curiosity.

The skulls are part of the museum's natural history collection, which includes many others, apart from these three. The ones pictured are the skulls (heads) of three British birds. The Victorian era was a time when natural history collecting, from around the world, was popular and collectors would set up displays of their curiosities – cabinets of curiosity.

Using felt tip pens or colouring pencils, colour in.

