

Colour in Roman glass

This green glass vessel is in the special exhibition, Villa, which looks at life in a Roman villa, with a fictional family, in West Berkshire.

In the Roman Empire, glass was used to make vessels for domestic (home), industrial and funereal purposes, as well as for mosaic tiles and window glass. This vessel was made for domestic use.

Using felt tip pens or colouring pencils, colour in the glass vessel.

