

Colour in a police officer

This police officer is Henry Beck, one of Newbury's first constables; the police as we know started in this area in 1836, two years before this was painted.

This picture was painted in 1838 and shows Henry wearing the official police uniform of the time: navy woollen long coat and trousers, and a stovepipe hat. It would have been warm clothing in winter, but perhaps too warm in summer!

Using felt tip pens or colouring pencils, colour in Henry Beck below.
