

Colour in the cannon balls

These are two lead cannon balls, found at Donnington Castle, and thought to date from seventeenth century. Donnington Castle was a Royalist stronghold and under siege during the Civil War. Sir John Boys eventually surrendered it to the Parliamentarians in 1646. Using felt tip pens or colouring pencils, colour in the cannon balls.

