Colour in a Christmas card

This is a Christmas card from the early 20th century (1900s). Christmas cards became popular in the Victorian era. Henry Cole sent the very first Christmas card in 1843. He asked an artist friend to illustrate his idea for a greetings card for Christmas.

Using felt tip pens or pencils, colour in the Christmas card.

These activities have been created as part of the Learning & Participation programme at West Berkshire Museum and Shaw House. For more information about our family events please visit http://www.westberkshireheritage.org/whats-on